

World Peace is not achieved

In Times of Ease

It is fought and won

When there is not food sufficiently

It is earned in daily practice

Of giving away your bread

When you least need it

So that when there is not enough

You don't panic

Unto the paradigm of Scarcity

Rather than claw in Desperation

Or Humiliate from a position of Surplus

You transcend the paradigm of Scarcity

Achieve Understanding, an open Palm

Even with nothing, you give Everything

And truly achieve what it means to be
